	In this special case-based presentation, practical clinical pearls will be offered to ensure successful management for the diverse range of clinical cutaneous mycotic infections including tinea pedis, tinea cruris, majocchi's granuloma, and more. At the very least, learn to love potassium hydroxide preps as much as we do!
12:30 - 1:15 PM	Psoriatic Arthritis for the Dermatologist Psoriatic arthritis affects approximately 30% of patients with psoriasis and usually presents up to 10 years after the onset of psoriasis. Thus, the majority of patients with psoriatic arthritis should be under the care of dermatologists who should understand the importance of making an early psoriatic arthritis diagnosis to help prevent permanent joint destruction.	Alan Menter, MD
12:30 - 1:15 PM	Practical Approach to the Management of the Patient with Atypical Nevi Patients with numerous melanocytic nevi often produce a particular type of nevus, a so-called signature nevus. Examples of the various types of signature nevi include solid brown, solid pink (especially in skin type I individuals), black with thin brown rim (representing junctional and compound lentiginous nevi), and "eclipse" (tan center with a brown rim that may be stellate or discontinuous).	Jean Bologna, MD
LUNCH WORKSHOP
12:30 - 1:15 PM	Dermoscopy for Young Practitioners The workshop will provide a systematic approach for improving diagnostic accuracy using dermoscopy and review site-specific and lesion-specific dermoscopic findings.	Sima Jain, MD

8:30 – 10:00 AM | MORNING GENERAL SESSION I

	Systemic Therapies for Melanoma: What Every Dermatologist Needs to Know Immune checkpoint inhibitors (ICIs) are increasingly being used not just for metastatic melanoma, but for a host of solid organ malignancies including non-small-cell lung cancer and renal cell carcinoma. The currently FDA-approved ICIs for the treatment of melanoma are ipilimumab (anti-CTLA-4 Ab), nivolumab (anti-PD-1 Ab), and pembrolizumab (anti-PD-1 Ab). The more common systemic immune-related adverse events (irAEs) include enterocolitis, hepatitis, hypothyroidism, and adrenal insufficiency. Life-threatening type 1 diabetes mellitus, pneumonitis, and myocarditis can also be seen. Up to 50% of patients develop cutaneous side effects and these vary from dermatitides (lichenoid, eczematous, psoriasiform) to morbilliform eruptions to bullous pemphigoid and Stevens-Johnson syndrome/toxic epidermal necrolysis. An improved survival is observed in patients who develop a vitiligo-like leukoderma.	Jean Bolognia, MD
--	---	-------------------

	Update on New Therapies for Psoriasis Psoriasis affects 7.5 million US patients with 20% i.e. 1.5 million having moderate-to-severe psoriasis. Currently less than 500,000 are being treated with any systemic or biologic agent. Thus, there is an important need for dermatologists in the clinical world to appropriately treat patients with moderate-to-severe psoriasis.	Alan Menter, MD

	Live Demonstration	TBA

12:30 – 2:00 PM | Lunch in the Exhibit Hall

LUNCH WORKING GROUPS

12:45 - 1:30 PM	How an Expert Approaches Dermatitis - Atopic, Irritant, Allergic, and NOS For the last 15 years, Dr. Zirwas practice has been composed almost exclusively of dermatitis patients sent from other dermatologists (aren't you jealous?). In seeing that many patients with dermatitis, reproducible patterns that aren't learned in residency or textbooks start becoming apparent. This session will meld together those 15 years of experience with the latest science to give you new ways to approach some of your most frustrating patients.	Matt Zirwas, MD
12:30 - 1:15 PM	Application of Cannabinoids for the Treatment of Inflammatory and Neoplastic Skin Diseases	Adam Friedman, MD
